A USA Today BestsellerInc. Magazine Top 100 Business Book and Top 10 Leadership Book of 2015Axiom Business Book Gold Award WinnerHow Anyone Can Win . . . Again and AgainWe all know people who seem to move from success to success, with barely a pause or dip in between. Theyre always excited about the next big project or goal. When trouble comes, they land on their feet. They are role models and opinion makers who lead rewarding lives. In a world full of people who almost win, these are the few who do it repeatedly and consistently.Larry Weidel
How do we accomplish something new? That is the question that this book tries to answer. I purchased it because I wanted a process to follow to achieve success. Here are my favorite excerpts:

◆ Start by following your natural curiosity.

◆ To do nothing with the resources we’re given because we fear the possible outcome is offensive. Plan enough to be convinced that it can work. Then jump in.

◆ Winners take what they know right now and choose the best course of action they can. “I go with my gut feeling when I have acquired information somewhere in the range of 40 to 70 percent.”

◆ If you feel like you’re not making progress, ask yourself, What decision am I not making?

◆ Winners launch into every project with a mindset and plan to overdo it at the start. Because “just do it” isn’t good enough.

◆ As it says in Ecclesiastes 9:10, “Whatever your hand finds to do, do it with all your might.”

◆ “Whatever your hand finds to do, do it with all your might.”

◆ Underestimating is one of the biggest causes of failure. The best way to combat it is by overdoing.

◆ Winners manage themselves to success by focusing on what they can control. Others get beat by letting their minds wander toward those things they can’t control.

◆ Two out of the three times you try to accomplish something, it will go wrong.

◆ It’s only when you get to the farthest limit of your resources that new resources appear. Law: To receive more, use all of what you have.

◆ While you can’t guarantee success, you can put the odds in your favor—substantially—through lots of activity as fast as possible.

◆ For now, take a deep breath and say the following: It will not always take this much effort. It will not always be this confusing. It will not always feel so awkward. It will not always be this stressful.

◆ If I’ve learned anything about winning, it’s this: You can’t piddle your way to greatness. You have to give it everything you’ve got. If you want to win, don’t waste time giving it a halfhearted effort. Focus on getting past start as fast as you can.

◆ I’ve heard many say they think about quitting two or three times every day. If you don’t feel the same way you’re probably not involved in anything very special or exciting.

◆ If you’ve got a glimmer of a shot and you really want it, work against all odds.

◆ “Whatever you do, do heartily, as to the Lord and not to men.”

◆ The difference between complicated and simple is often the difference between winning and losing.

◆ The best way forward is to fight to keep things simple—and it will be a fight.

◆ If you’re going for something you really want, you’ll fight for it. You’ll overcome any obstacle in your path.

◆ “It seems like it takes 98 percent of the effort to get the last 2 percent done.”

◆ What do serial winners do? They stay on high alert.

◆ They turn over every stone, think through every last step, explore every vulnerability, and check and recheck to avoid being derailed at the last minute.

◆ in the last two weeks, the problems that arise seem almost insurmountable—You start to believe that the win is guaranteed.

◆ This is how great teams lose. This is how even successful people suddenly lose.

◆ Effort and fight activate all your advantages.

◆ Effort and fight—determination, bulldog tenacity—are the only things you can control.

◆ Doing anything great will be inconvenient.

◆ The majority of your time on the things you most want to do (because they are likely the best use of your time) and get brutally efficient at everything else.

◆ You have to impose your will until you find success.

◆ Big success is found in the finer points of execution.

◆ Those who don’t find ways to measure their progress tend to stagnate while deluding themselves all the while that they are actually making progress.

◆ There is no degree of action or intuition that can lead to success if your subconscious mind is armed against you. I am speaking from experience.
book. A very enjoyable book, written beautifully, detailing the author's personal journey to becoming a mother. Great book for getting the most out of the actions you coach and it will help you to enjoy coaching more too. It is also a fantastic supplement for middle and high school teachers of science or health who are looking for fresh materials to spice up their curriculum. I only wished that I had read Crdate first book. Virginia Lee Burton (1909-1968) was the talented author and illustrator of some of the serial enduring books ever written for children. But people don't believe it because of what other people says about them but ignore the negative people and STAY LOCKED WITH YOUR DREAM, DONT LET ANYONE TELL YOU WHAT TO DO OR HOW TO THINK. Chapter 12 is totally devoted to licensing and certification in the body piercing industry (a must read). The book's title draws from a tradition dating back to the Joseon Dynasty in which a bride would present handmade thimbles to her husband's female relatives to wish them good fortune and a long life. The suspense mounts as the novel reaches its pulse-pounding finale followed by a perfect, poignant postscript.
